PERSONAL STATEMENT

What motivated you to pursue a career in oral health? In your response, you may wish to describe and highlight your strengths, experiences, backgrounds, and uniqueness that will contribute to your success in this career.

Answer: I remember a quiet afternoon at my father's pharmacy when a daily-wage worker walked in, distressed, holding his jaw. He kept saying it was "just a tooth," yet the pain had kept him from working for days. My father calmly explained the prescribed medication, offered it at a discounted price, and reassured him. When the man left, relieved, I realized how something as small as a tooth could disrupt a person's entire life. As a child, I did not understand medicines or diagnoses, but I understood the respect people had for someone who could soothe pain. That moment stayed with me long before I ever imagined adding "Doctor" before my name.

I grew up in a family rooted in healthcare, with my father, my elder brother, and my sister-in-law being pharmacists. Our conversations often revolve around patient care, ethics, and responsibility. My mother, a homemaker, is the calming force who reminds us that compassion is equally as important as competence.

Dentistry fascinated me early on as a teenager when a molar infection resulted in a root canal treatment and a crown. I eagerly watched how my dentist restored comfort. I realized I wanted this profession where I can give immediate relief and have a direct patient impact. The path wasn't easy—it took me two years of relentless effort, long nights, and complete focus. My determination and God's grace got me a seat at one of the most prestigious dental schools in my state. That moment wasn't just a victory; it marked the beginning of my journey in dentistry.

A clinical experience that sealed my destiny, rather than the most memorable experience, was delivering a complete denture for a geriatric patient. His face lit up, relieved. His excitement had no bounds. Also, he handed me a bag of fruits, a thank-you note, and INR hundreds' currency, my first paycheck laden with blessings, and a reminder of the long way ahead, which I still retain in my wallet. These moments reminded me that dentistry is not just about procedures; it's about making patients feel cared for.

My clinical practice as a dentist across various settings taught me that dentistry is not confined to the four walls of a dental office. Having volunteered as a COVID warrior during the pandemic, community outreach programs exposed me to the stark realities that a large population faces: limited access to healthcare, especially for underserved communities. I realized the power of such initiatives in transforming lives. This experience fueled my passion for improving healthcare with innovative techniques, but from the global innovation hub.

The U.S. was always on my radar. My admiration for the experts who crafted our books, my aspiration to learn from the land of the pioneers—the very authors of the Bible of Periodontology, Carranza's, and every author who crafted the reference books for other specializations, remained alive. But the pandemic disrupted those plans, and I landed in Canada and pursued a master's of Arts in leadership with a major in health care, which gave me a broader perspective on practice management. Alongside, I worked as a dental assistant to better understand North American dental practices. I gained experience assisting with complex procedures and observing patient-centered care.

Volunteering with the Canadian Red Cross and Royal Inland Hospital's emergency care further broadened my perspective on community care and the diverse needs of patients nationwide. The CE courses and conferences helped me stay on track with the advancements across dentistry. Yet, the aspiration to be a U.S. dentist and learn from the land of the pioneers remained alive.

The United States, being the top notch for dental advancements, I endeavor to get into one of the dental schools and, with the skills I acquire, work in a clinic thereafter, slowly but surely climbing the ladder to eventually not just practice dentistry but also volunteer/work in a free clinic and build a network where dentists can collaborate to provide care to those who cannot afford it.

When I reflect on my journey, I recall that small pharmacy where I first saw how untreated pain could take over a person's life. Dentistry has since given me the ability to restore comfort, function, and dignity through compassionate, ethical care. Pursuing a DDS program in the United States is the next step to refine my skills in a setting that values precision, integrity, and patient-centered care. I move forward with the same intent that inspired me years ago: to relieve pain through compassionate care.

Letter of Recommendation

I, Dr. Namita Singh, in the capacity of the current Principal of Baba Jaswant Singh Dental College and Hospital, Punjab, India, write this letter of recommendation for Dr. Shubham, Chopra, a former student of our institution, to pursue higher studies in the United States. This letter is based on my review of his overall records and the feedback that I have received from the college faculty.

Dr. Shubham has been an outstanding alumni of our college. During his 5 years of study pursuing a Bachelor of Dental Surgery (BDS) program at our Dental School (4 year of BDS + 1 year Internship) from academic year 2014 to 2019, he was noted for being a meticulous student, possessing a friendly and helping nature. He always performed the duties entrusted upon him with utmost sincerity.

I had the opportunity to review Dr. Shubham contributions during his tenure here and his progression as a professional dentist. According to the faculty, he was always known as a bright, dedicated, and obedient student. His academic excellence and profound knowledge of his subjects were outstanding. He can evaluate dental conditions, diagnose properly, and create well-thought-out, detailed treatment plans. His leadership skills were commendable as he was an integral part of the hostel management and a member of the anti-ragging squad.

Dr. Shubham possesses the academic diligence, empathetic nature, and communication proficiency required to excel in your esteemed program. I am confident that he will prove to be a compassionate and highly skilled dental professional rendering his services to the upliftment of our society. I strongly believe that his admission to your university will be a significant milestone in his career.

If you have any questions, I would be happy to answer them.

His deep involvement in dentistry has also been reflected across various procedures such as Alveoplasty, Atraumatic extraction, and placements of arch bar.

Dr. Shubham's exceptional attention to detail, clinical acumen, and communication skills set him apart as a competent and proactive professional. I recall a challenging case where a patient was apprehensive. Given the extensive nature of the extraction, others hesitated to take on the case. He convinced the patient of the necessity of the treatment amicably and explained the procedures beforehand so that the patient felt relaxed. His meticulous planning, expertise, and commitment to patient care ultimately achieved a positive clinical outcome.

Dr. Shubham believed in giving back to the community. He prioritized community outreach, collaborating in rural dental camps to provide oral health education and screenings for 300+ underserved individuals. Aware of oral cancer's prevalence, he educated patients on tobacco risks, early detection, and prevention. His evidence-based follow-up care ensured timely referrals and continuity of treatment, highlighting his compassion and teamwork.

Letter Of Recommendation

I, Dr. Amolak (Sunny) Sangha, a General Dentist at Grasslands Dental Care, British Columbia, Canada, am pleased to write this letter of recommendation for Shubham Chopra. Shubham is an internationally trained dentist from India who has been working as a dental assistant at our practice for the past two years.

Shubham is passionate and loyal to learning something new. He demonstrates a thorough understanding of dentistry and consistently seeks to deepen his knowledge. He is curious about advanced procedures and regularly asks questions involving intricate details about the treatment planning process. His attention to detail and eagerness to learn the latest dental standards have been invaluable in clinical practice. He is driven and will ensure he fully comprehends the task before beginning work.

Despite being new to the North American dental practice, he was quick to aid in several scenarios. He has shown remarkable development throughout his time in our clinic. He has observed cases, taken case histories, and refined his skills and knowledge regarding various procedures. Shubham has demonstrated his abilities to draw the distinctions between North American and Indian dentistry.

Shubham is a disciplined and a diligent individual. He assists me in various general dentistry procedures and has helped me manage a variety of cases and procedures. From oral and nitrous oxide sedation to performing fluoride applications for pediatric patients and fabricating temporary crowns. He has developed strong administrative skills, including patient scheduling, insurance, and billing. He is familiar with dental practice management systems such as Videa AI, Tracker, Dentrix, and Dexis.

Working closely with Shubham, I observed that he recognized the true ethos of being a healthcare professional. He has consistently demonstrated his abilities in dealing with anxious and nervous patients who have been apprehensive about treatment and have had bad experiences with dental care in their childhood. However, Shubham has stepped in and explained the necessity of the treatment and the risks of avoiding the procedure in a clear and concise manner. He calmly explains every step, bringing the patient to ease and comfort. Shubham's approach and commitment to patient comfort has regularly contributed to positive patient experiences.

Shubham frequently offers to lend a helping hand where needed. He collaborates well with the administrative and clinical teams and acquaints himself well with new protocols. I am impressed with his ability to work effectively with others and adapt and integrate with new team members.

Working with Shubham has been a true pleasure, and I am confident in his ability to become an adept and successful practitioner. His genuine kindness, added to his clinical skills, attests to his eligibility, and he will be a valuable addition to your program. I recommend him wholeheartedly for favorable consideration.

Please feel free to contact me if you need any further information.

Sincerely,

Dr. Amolak (Sunny) Sangha, DDS
